I'm Theo from Herbapedia. As you know, there are many potential natural resources in Indonesia specifically plants. People here use plants as a traditional medicine for generation to generation. Unfortunately as for today, only few people use or even know how to make medicine from plants. Although, it still has many benefits, and has less side effects than modern medicine. Herbapedia vision is to make Indonesia go nature. People can find plant information just by scanning its images or searching its name. They can also add and see all plants locations in our map so they can find it easily. The information that they'll get are name, efficacy, benefits, and recipe. The recipe can be in form of a drink, face mask, body cream, and all natural ingredient recipes that can be made out of it. We want to empower user, to be able to make their own natural ingredient medicine. With this, we hope we can improve public's awareness and knowledge about plant consumption in order to conserve and maximize its potential. Our team has got a working prototype and currently looking to raise an angel investment. Would this be of interest to you?
